

ASHLEY CORUM

Ashley is originally from Illinois but has been in Kentucky since she was in the 3rd grade. She grew up in Radcliff, KY and graduated from North Hardin High School in 2009. Coach Ashley started playing when she was 4. She was a member of the Campbellsville University Women's Soccer Team through her junior year of college. Unfortunately, she got a few too many concussions and the neurologist advised that it was time she hang up her playing boots. Her playing career might have been over, but she was just starting her new role in soccer. During Ashley's senior year at CU, she was manager of the varsity team and assistant coach of the JV team at CU. She quickly found her passion in coaching. Once she finished her undergraduate studies, she coached at North Hardin High School for one year. Coach Ashley was then asked to return to CU as a grad assistant for the women's soccer team while earning her Master's Degree in Sports Management. After graduate school, she entertained a career in law enforcement for about a year. She was then asked again to return to CU to be the program's first full-time assistant coach for the women's soccer program.
